

ASSET BROCHURE

PREGNANT COW

What is Crowdfarming™?

Crowdfarming is the crowdfunding of farming by members of the public.

Livestock Wealth enables anyone to own real farm assets as they grow on a farm and earn income at harvest.

Our platform connects investors looking to buy farm assets to farmers who grow and maintain those assets until harvest. The assets could be pregnant cows, free-range oxen, organic garden tunnels and macadamia trees.

We call this innovation, crowd-farming.

Farmers receive seasonal income while they incur monthly expenses such as rent, salaries, feed and farm maintenance costs.

A season is a period between planting and harvest. The length of a season can vary from three months for vegetables such as spinach, growing to twelve months for pregnant cows and ballooning to seven years for Macadamia nut trees.

The farmer receives no income during the growing season and has to rely on past savings or expensive loans from the banks to survive.

Crowdfarming enables the farmer to reduce his financial burden by selling some of the farm assets as they grow on their farm to investors for cash.

The farmer continues to look after both his assets and those of the investors until harvest.

The farmer's financial situation improves at harvest, enabling him to buy back the mature assets from the investor at a profit.

Livestock Wealth links the product produced by the farm assets to profitable markets to the benefit of both the farmer and the investor.
